Congress, at Washington, D. C.

WE take pleasure in presenting this, the present issue of the Buffalo Address Book and Family Directory, feeling assured it will fully meet the requirements of its patrons, in the many features of importance it covers.

The publishers desire to extend their sincere thanks to those who have rendered assistance in giving the required information; without the prompt and hearty co-operation of those interested, the reliability of the work and its usefulness would be impaired. The manner of compiling the directory has been a house-to-house canvas on the streets appearing in the index. Where information was refused or families were out of the city, the most available means were employed to get as authentic information as possible, the reliability of which, however, we cannot vouch for in every instance. Should the book fall short of the anticipations of any of our subscribers, we assure them that any fault will be remedied in the next issue. In a work of this scope, improvements are always possible, and we desire to meet their wishes in the matter, feeling assured we will attain the greatest success when we have most fully met the requirements of our patrons.

Among the added features of this issue, is a church list, under denominational heads, illustrations of clubs, art galleries and society buildings.

In conclusion, we desire to express our gratitude to the subscribers and advertisers, whose patronage has made this volume possible. The confidence manifested will be a stimulus for the future, and we will endeavor to present our patrons with an address book that will meet their every requirement in a social and business way.

The Buffalo Blue Book Selected Addresses is incorporated in this volume.

TO meet the ever-increasing demand for a reliable Address Book, the present issue is given to the public, and we trust its carefully compiled contents will fully meet the emergency, and be a useful and enduring benefit to those who have occasion to consult its pages.

For social and business purposes it occupies a unique and special field.

Society people will find the book especially adapted for their requirements, inasmuch as it not only enumerates all those identified with the social world, but includes the officers of the clubs, social, religious, literary, scientific, and charitable institutions with which they are connected.

In a business way, for sending out announcements, circulars, etc., designed to cover a particular locality or street, it is especially to be commended, and users will readily appreciate its merits and advantages.

As an evidence of its advertising usefulness, we have only to direct attention to the representative, well-known and reliable firms, whose attractive advertising literature forms a very gratifying endorsement, a classified index of which will be found in the "Shoppers' Guide."

Copies may be obtained of Otto Ulbrich, 386 Main Street, and The White-Evans-Penfold Co., 302-304 Main Street:

Our Stationery Department

as shown above, is in Palmer's flower store, and is connected by 'phone with our workrooms above. A writing desk and materials are always at your disposal, and if you have not made use of these conveniences we trust you will do so the next time you are down town shopping. It is not at all necessary for you to purchase anything, and we merely wish to have you inspect the very fine specimens of printing and engraving which are being executed in our workrooms. We feel confident that if you will do so that the mission of this advertisement will have been accomplished, and that we will number you among our customers when in need of similar work.

The Pianola

Is the ONLY instrument of its class that has ever been endorsed by any great musician. Even Paderewski uses the Pianola to play those compositions not in his repertory.

The Æolian

Is a home orchestra; whoever plays it controls the expression just as the conductor controls his orchestra. Owners of Æolians would not part with them for many times their cost. The Orchestrelle is the Æolian Company's latest development of the Æolian.
